“What a Dentist Needs to Know About Allergies”

Dr. Douglas F. McMahon is an Asthma and Allergy specialist at Allergy and Asthma Center of Minnesota. He is a board certified allergist and is the current President of the Minnesota Allergy Society. He is also the Director of Outpatient Allergy at the University of Minnesota. He himself has severe asthma and was a patient on many occasions at Children's Hospital. He attended medical school at Georgetown University and completed pediatric residency at the University of South Florida. He continued his training at the University of Wisconsin, Madison as a fellow of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology for both pediatrics and adults. His interests include asthma, seasonal and chronic allergic rhinitis, food allergy and atopic dermatitis.

Douglas F. McMahon M.D.

Learning Objectives

- Anesthetic Allergy - What are options for identification and the best products to use?
- Topical Allergies – Latex, Nickel and Other Possible Triggers.
- Environmental Allergies – The Role of Cavities and Jaw-Misalignment.
- Oral Allergy Syndrome.
- Many Other Topics to Be Covered Regarding Allergies for the Dental Practice.

Course Description

Allergic reactions can not only be scary for the patient, they can be for the provider. We will discuss ways to best prevent severe allergic reactions by noting common triggers a dentist may see. We will also identify true allergic reactions and what signs and symptoms are more concerning and how to treat each type of reaction. We will discuss options of medications to treat allergic reactions and review epinephrine use. Then we will see how food and environmental allergies can impact dental work and how oral allergy syndrome may be presented as a dental issue. Attending this discussion will help you provide better care to your patients, give you more comfort preventing and treating allergic reactions, and give you overall more knowledge that can manifest as confidence to your staff and patients.

One hour continuing education credits will be given.
